Our public lands should be managed by a multiple use model that balances conservation, recreation, and responsible resource utilization.  Colorado's forests are one of our greatest resources but overgrowth makes forests susceptible to disease and wildfire.  Congress must take all necessary steps to protect our forests and our watersheds on public lands from epidemic and catastrophic wildfires.