

Americans must be allowed to develop American energy and end our reliance on imported oil. The United States must have an "all of the above strategy" when it comes to developing our energy resources. This includes renewable energies such as wind, solar, bio fuels, and hydro power. We must also increase our use of nuclear power. America's natural gas, oil and coal reserves should be used as a bridge until more cost effective substitutes can be produced.